

Spanish A1 — Session 24 Reflection

Crescere | Beginner Spanish | Session 24

Set aside 20–30 minutes

This is not ordinary homework. There is no next session to prepare for. This document is for you — to help you consolidate what you have learned, understand where you are, and plan what comes next.

Set aside 20–30 minutes. Make yourself a coffee. Do this slowly.

Part 1 — Course Reflection

Answer each question in one or two sentences. Write in English — this is a reflection, not a language exercise.

1. What surprised you most about learning Spanish?
 2. What was the hardest moment? What did you do when you got stuck?
 3. What moment made you feel most proud of your Spanish?
 4. Which week or topic do you feel most confident about? Which feels shakiest?
 5. What kind of learner were you? Did you find it easier to speak or to write? Did you study between sessions or only in class?

Part 2 — A1 Self-Assessment Checklist

Be honest. This is only for you.

Communication:

- ☐ I can introduce myself (name, origin, profession, family, interests) using ser and estar correctly
- ☐ I can ask and answer basic questions about daily life
- ☐ I can make plans — suggest, agree, negotiate, decline politely
- ☐ I can give directions to a place using prepositions and al / del
- ☐ I can order food or drink at a café or restaurant
- ☐ I can handle a shopping situation using demonstratives and quantities
- ☐ I can describe my home and neighbourhood
- ☐ I can describe symptoms and navigate a pharmacy using doler correctly

Grammar:

- ☐ I use ser and estar correctly in the most common contexts without hesitation
- ☐ I conjugate regular -ar, -er, -ir verbs without looking them up
- ☐ I use reflexive verbs for my daily routine (me levanto, me ducho, me acuesto)
- ☐ I use ir a + infinitivo for near-future plans
- ☐ I use tener que / hay que / poder in planning contexts
- ☐ I use gustar/encantar correctly — gusta (singular/infinitive) / gustan (plural)

- ☐ I use doler correctly — me duele (singular) / me duelen (plural), with definite article
- ☐ I apply al / del contractions correctly most of the time
- ☐ I use llevar + time to express ongoing duration

Writing:

- ☐ I can write 8–10 clear sentences on a familiar topic
- ☐ I can write a short personal message that achieves its communicative purpose

Count your checks: 16–18 = solid A1. 12–15 = good A1 with some gaps. Below 12 = worth spending time on the weak areas before A2.

Part 3 — What to Work on Before A2

Based on your self-assessment, choose 2–3 items to focus on. Write them here and make a concrete plan.

My top priorities:

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

How I will practice:

- ☐ Write 3–5 sentences using this structure every day for a week
 - ☐ Find a Spanish-language resource to practice listening (podcast, series)
 - ☐ Review my homework from the relevant week
 - ☐ Practice speaking out loud for 5 minutes per day

Part 4 — Staying Active Between A1 and A2

The most common reason students lose ground between courses is inactivity, not forgetting. Five minutes of Spanish per day does more than five hours of cramming before A2 starts.

Recommended daily habits (choose at least one):

- Read: "Español con Juan" or "News in Slow Spanish" (podcast + transcript — very accessible at A1/A2 level)
- Listen: "Coffee Break Spanish" podcast — excellent A1/A2 episodes
- Watch: "Extra en español" (YouTube — a sitcom designed for learners); Spanish series with Spanish subtitles
- Write: Keep a one-sentence Spanish journal. Just one sentence per day: "Hoy he comido pizza." You will be using the pretérito naturally before A2 even begins.
- App: Anki with a deck for irregular verbs — focus on the ones you missed in your self-assessment

The one-sentence journal is the single most useful recommendation. It keeps Spanish present, builds writing fluency, and accidentally prepares you for A2 past tenses.

Part 5 — The Ser/Estar Foundation

The ser/estar distinction is the most important concept in Spanish A1 and it continues throughout A2 and beyond. Before starting A2, make sure you feel secure in these common contexts:

Context	Verb	Example
Identity, origin, profession	ser	Soy médico. Soy de México.
Permanent or essential characteristics	ser	Es inteligente. El cielo es azul.
States, emotions, conditions	estar	Estoy cansado. Está triste.
Location of people and things	estar	Estoy en casa. El banco está enfrente.
Meaning-changing adjectives	both	Es aburrido (he's boring) vs. Está aburrido (he's bored)

Write 3 sentences in each category from your own life before starting A2. This is the single strongest preparation for the A2 course.

Part 6 — Optional A2 Preparation

If you want to get a head start:

Irregular verb review: In A2, these verbs will appear constantly in the pretérito. Make sure you know the full present tense of: ser, estar, ir, tener, hacer, querer, poder, saber, conocer, decir, venir. These same verbs will have irregular pretérito forms — knowing the present cold makes the pretérito easier to learn.

Preview the pretérito (do not worry about mastering it): The pretérito indefinido regular endings: -ar verbs (hablé, hablaste, habló, hablamos, hablasteis, hablaron). For -er/-ir verbs (comí, comiste, comió, comimos, comisteis, comieron). In your one-sentence journal, try: "Hoy comí en casa." / "Esta mañana fui al supermercado." You will be practicing A2 grammar naturally.

Cultural immersion: Watch one Spanish-language film or series. Money Heist / La casa de papel is engaging and Spanish-produced; Élite is accessible; Club de Cuervos is a good Latin American option. Do not worry about understanding everything — let the language wash over you with subtitles.

Enhorabuena. Has aprendido español. No fue fácil. Sigue adelante.
